THE STORY OF OUR COFFEE

We discovered the quality of the coffee in El Salvador during one of our many surf trips to that country. El Salvador coffee is known as SHG, or Strictly High Grown, and is held to very high standards. The plantations in El Salvador are individually owned, and handed down from generation to generation with great family pride. We were fortunate enough to become acquainted with a family having a long tradition of growing coffee beans in the high mountains, and we have been importing their coffee ever since. We grind our beans fresh for every pot, insuring the highest strength and quality for our customers
